
The Ken Hellowell Transportation Safety Award

Ken's Story: Ken Hellowell was a true ambassador in the Canadian trucking community. He was a pillar and a pioneer of promoting truck safety.

Back in 1964 a small group of safety managers and stakeholders met to form the genesis of the Transportation Safety Association and the Fleet Safety Council that carries on to this day.

Ken enjoyed a storied career as a commercial vehicle operator, driver-trainer and successful truck safety consultant. He was an innovator with respect to transportation development and was a fixture in truck driving championships as competitor, sponsor, and president of the championships.

Ken was passionate about truck safety, worked with numerous carriers and was mentor to countless drivers, driver trainers and safety managers on whom all, he left an everlasting impact with respect to transportation safety.

The Ken Hellowell Award: The Ken Hellowell Transportation Safety Award was established to recognize contributions made by an individual or group that is active or retired from the Ontario Transportation industry and exhibits extraordinary leadership, initiative, creativity, and innovation towards the advancement of health and safety.

The Ken Hellowell Transportation Safety Award is presented annually to a qualified individual or group who have diligently served the cause of transportation health and safety through services, contributions, inventions, procedures, or in any manner considered by the judging committee as being worthy of recognition.

Award Criteria: The recipient must have demonstrated outstanding service with respect to the advancement of the Transportation Industry and/or their community in the promotion of transportation safety.
